

Mr. Norris: Jack Britt's favorite sub

By Robert O.

Jolly Roger

As Jack Britt finds itself in desperation with Mr. Lopes' retirement, a familiar face has come to lend a helping hand. The intern administrator, Mr. Norris, has once again come out of retirement of being the principal of Baldwin Elementary, to save the day.

“Mrs. Garison was promoted, and the assistant principal position is vacant. So I'm here to fill in the position until a replacement is found,” said Mr. Norris.

He will be filling the position until a replacement principal is approved by the school board.

Despite not being a permanent administrator or member of Jack Britt, Mr. Norris says he “feels welcomed” by the students and staff at Britt.

“I'm a friendly person, and I respect everyone. If you give respect, respect comes back to you. I believe in the three Fs. Be friendly, be fair, and be firm,” said Mr. Norris.

While he has gone out of retirement to save the day twice at Jack Britt, Mr. Norris has also filled in at Terry Sanford, E. E. Miller, Lake Rim, and Warrenwood.
